Rehabilitation Services at The Ohio State University

Rehabilitation Services Welcome Ph.D. students

The Rehabilitation Services program at OSU welcomes four new doctoral students: They are Carl Sabo, Lori Allison, Jennifer Hertzfeld and Craig Johnston.

1. Carl Sabo received his M.S. from Ohio University in rehab. He currently works as a Vocational Rehab Counselor for the Bureau of Services for the Visually Impaired at the Ohio RSC. Carl lives in Dublin, and is a big music fan. He sees himself as a rehab administrator in the future.
2. Lori Allison received her B.S. at The College of Wooster, and her MS from OSU. She currently is a special education teacher at Bexley High School. She lives in Columbus, and hopes to teach at the university level after completion of her degree.
3. Jennifer Hertzfeld received her M.A. in rehab from OSU. She lives in Hilliard, and her career aspirations are to become a rehab educator.
4. Craig Johnston received his MA in rehab from Bowling Green State University. He currently works as a Rehab Specialist in the private sector, and expects to continue to work in that area after his graduation.

The faculty congratulates our new doctoral students.

Master's Program Receives 8-Year Re-accreditation

The Master's Rehabilitation Services Program has received an 8-year accreditation from the Council on Rehabilitation Education. The process included review of extensive documentation relating to the program as well as a thorough survey of students,

Graduates, employers and clinical field supervisors. The accreditation is essential for the program to compete for all federal funding, including our current MA and Ph.D awards. Also, eligibility for the major credential in rehabilitation services, Certified Rehabilitation Counselor, for our MA students is contingent on our Program accreditation. The faculty offers thanks to all of our constituents who contribute to this accreditation renewal!

Growick Chosen as Switzer Scholar

Bruce Growick, PhD., CRC was selected to be an honorary Switzer Scholar in Rehabilitation for 2000. Only 20 persons from the United States were chosen this year for their leadership, expertise and achievements in the subject matter of this year's topic entitled, "Emerging Workforce Issues: W.I.A., Ticket to Work and Partnerships in Rehab." Bruce authored an article entitled "The Political Implications of TTW-WIIA" especially for the seminar.

He is a past-president of NARPPS, and represented NARPPS during the development of TTW-WIIA testifying before Congress editing a special issue of the NARPPS Journal in the Fall of 1997 on rehabilitating SSA beneficia-

Did you know that...

The Census Bureau estimates that Columbus, Ohio ranks as the 15th most populous city in the nation according to a report by USA Today. The population in Columbus grew by over 5% during the 90's, and is now estimated to be close to 800,000.

Klein's Corner

For over 20 years, Dr. Michael Klein has been involved in the area of substance abuse prevention among persons with disabilities. In collaboration with school districts in Central Ohio, over 20 doctoral students have completed doctoral dissertations in this area. This year a major study is underway which will yield new information on over 65,000 students' drug and alcohol behavior. Ph.D. students will once again be able to apply for these data. Interested parties on this and other issues related to the Safe and Drug Free school efforts should contact Dr. Klein at 614-292-8651 or at Klein.3@osu.edu
